

Slavic Studies-Program: since 2020 with Ferdinand Schöningh

Slavic and Eurasian Studies Program now published by Ferdinand Schöningh:

A total of five book series and ten journals is published by Ferdinand Schöningh since 2020. This will expand and meaningfully extend the already existing Eastern European focus of our program. The Slavic and Eurasian Studies program presents books and journals on the history, culture, and politics of Eastern Europe as well as Russia and the Soviet Union, respectively. The program is also open to research on eastern, non-Slavic regions such as the Baltic states and Central Asia. We are particularly interested in giving international visibility to high-quality research publications by scholars from Central and Eastern Europe and connecting them with our existing networks of editors and authors in the English-speaking world.
